Project Title: Evanescence Website

1. Project overview

I want my website to be informational, but feel interactive in how it is composed. I want the aesthetic choices to enhance the mood of the site.

2. Resources

Copy is available at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Evanescence, as well as some photography. There are a lot of other photographs available on Google Images as well.

4. Audience

I picture this site working similarly to fan wikis or fan blogs. It's not meant to be a digital history book, and probably won't be promoted commercially. The targeted audience is people who already know and/or enjoy Evanescence but want to learn more. An age range isn't specified.

5. Message

I'd like to focus on the music of the band and their iconic sound and branding. They have paved the way for women in the heavy music scene and are very popular with the general public, so my website will focus largely on their accomplishments and influence.

6. Tone

The tone will be pretty casual, again evoking a sense of fandom enjoyment. I want it to be bold, but not loud, and pretty, but not entirely delicate. I think the tone should match the melancholic, haunting themes of the music.

8. Visual Style

Again, I want it to evoke the early 2000s, but perhaps with more updated usability techniques. I imagine the background will be black or a deep blue instead of white. I'm thinking the color scheme will be mostly blues, yellows/greens, and maybe reds because those are the prevailing colors in their album art. Here are some inspiration examples. Maybe something in the same vein as these, but not strictly:

^^ an old version of their website! I like the colors and feeling. I want to emulate it in ways that feel just as true to their brand, but still feel in line with more modern web design.
